Mark Bliven 2021 MCA President

President's Message - August 14, 2021

We are winding down summer and approaching the start of school and hopefully a break in heat and drought conditions in Minnesota. I want to address the latest issues with the continuing Covid situation. Most of us really expected that with the availability of vaccines that we would have turned the corner by now and would be on track to the new normal regarding work and general life. Unfortunately, our vaccine utilization in Minnesota while higher than many other areas of the country, is still too low based on many factors including those not able to be vaccinated and those unwilling to participate in this important public health initiative. The corrections field is not immune to these disappointing levels.

With the resurgence of Covid particularly due to the highly infective Delta variant, we are seeing increased and necessary precautions being implemented. On August 12, 2021 the MCA board met and addressed a proposal to require all those attending in-person at the upcoming Fall Institute Oct 26-29 to provide proof of vaccination. This was done to demonstrate to sponsoring organizations both private and governmental that we will be taking necessary precautions to ensure that this in-person gathering won't contribute to Covid spread.

We cannot predict new developments but we are confident that this vaccination requirement along with additional precautions based on current and future CDC and Minnesota Dept. of Health guidelines will demonstrate to employers and attendees that we are taking into account best practices in regard to health concerns. We look forward to this safe in-person gathering of our important corrections community.

For those not able or unwilling to be vaccinated for any reason we will still make sure that you can benefit from the important information, training, and networking of the MCA Fall Institute through some virtual connections and recorded sessions. While this will not be the same as in-person we will work over the next two months toward the goal of developing this as an important part of your corrections experience even without the still important actual in-person portion.

My thanks to all of you who in these difficult times have continued to provide your valuable services in our endeavors to use best practices and efforts. You are making sure that we can successfully transition those within the criminal justice system back into successful crime-free community contributors.

Thank you, thank you, thank you!

Are you still experiencing symptoms from your previous COVID-19 illness? Will Workers' Comp Pay for my Post-COVID-19 syndrome (Long COVID)?

There's a growing body of evidence to suggest that COVID-19 continues to impact patients long after the acute illness has resolved in the body. These ongoing effects have been categorized as "long COVID" or "long COVID-19".

Researchers at the Mayo Clinic continue to study and document long-term damage to heart muscle, lung tissue, blood vessels, and the brain. The list of symptoms includes fatigue, shortness of breath, cough, joint pain, chest pain, memory or concentration problems ("brain fog"), muscle pain, headache, increased heart rate, loss of smell or taste, fever, dizziness, and depression or anxiety. Additionally, the effects of long COVID can increase risk of heart failure, long-term breathing problems, stroke, seizures, Guillain-Barre syndrome, Parkinson's disease, and Alzheimer's disease.

In Minnesota, injuries or conditions that develop after contracting COVID may be compensable under the workers' compensation statute. Generally, non-first responders who contract COVID-19 at work are entitled to workers' compensation benefits for their lost wages, medical treatment, and more associated with both the immediate and long-term effects of the virus. Under Minnesota Statutes § 176.011, subdivision 15, first responders like police officers, firefighters, corrections officers, state patrol officers, paramedics, EMTs, and nurses are entitled to the same benefits when they contract the virus; however, first responders receive the added benefit of a legal presumption that their COVID-19 illness was contracted at work.

Since the pandemic began, our firm has seen many cases involving severe after-effects of COVID-19. For example, one client had a stroke and suffered permanent injuries that led to memory loss, vision issues, and more while he was recovering from COVID-19. Similarly, other clients who had previously contracted COVID-19 later experienced light headedness, AFIB, increased heart rate, fatigue, mental fogginess, and mental health symptoms associated with anxiety, depression, and PTSD.

If you previously contracted COVID-19, and you're experiencing any of these symptoms or conditions, it's important to understand your rights and the benefits that you may be entitled to receive. Waiting to pursue a claim could jeopardize your potential benefits based on statute of limitations or notice issues. Our firm provides fee consultations to assess your workers' compensation claim and determine what benefits you are owed.

LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS UPDATE

Submitted by: Calvin Saari - MCA Legislative Liaison

Well, it took a lengthy Special Session before the Legislature got it's work done and at least passed a budget bill for the next two years. As you all know, it was the Public Safety Omnibus bill that was the final block to agreement and it all centered on the police reform proposals. In the end the Public Safety bill did muster sufficient votes to get to the Governor for signature. It is a decent bill for Corrections with some minor increases in financial support and a number of new policy initiatives, but a lot was left on the table. We are still very disappointed with the lack of commitment on juvenile issues particularly in the Senate. Judiciary Chair Senator Warren Limmer kept telling me that we'd address them in the next Session. Remember however, that the 2022 Session also is the beginning of a new election cycle, and it is very unlikely that the Legislature will be willing to move forward on any controversial matters, including juvenile justice reform.

One item that will be very evident in 2022 is the continuing debate on Police Reform. During this past Session, I encountered several questions from legislators about what our position was as Corrections staff on the issue of police reform. This is something we have not had an open discussion on, but there is interest in some circles as to our position. Having worked so closely throughout my career with law enforcement, my thought process is naturally as an advocate for law enforcement and opposed to any effort to make their work more complicated, yet being sensitive to the need to address reform. Many of us have strong feelings that the entire issue of reform centers around the Metro area, and for the most part, is not an issue in greater Minnesota. I have been told many times by law enforcement staff from greater Minnesota that desired reforms advocated in the Metro area just don't work in our rural communities. I do think that as a criminal justice organization, we need to further explore the issues and possible responses, so I'm advocating for more in-depth discussions by our Committees and our general membership. Legislative Chair Mary Cardinal has agreed to include this concern on our discussion agenda as we prepare our legislative agenda for 2022. It is important for us in this Committee to have your feedback, questions and concerns on the concept of police reform. Please contact Mary or me, or any member of the Legislative Committee to voice your opinions.

The MCA Fall Institute is quickly coming up with a return to in-person sessions. This year we will use our legislative workshop time to bring the membership an experience with "The Lifers", a program started a few years ago by Dan Cain and several long term inmates who will share their experiences and issues in trying to re-enter into the community following long term incarceration. Two years ago MCA recognized this group with an award at the Fall Institute and this workshop will give a more in depth look at their experiences. We will also present the MCA 2022 Legislative Agenda for comment by the membership.. This will again be a worthwhile workshop for your time at the Institute.

As we work now to develop our new legislative agenda in the next couple of months, please share your interests and concerns with any member of the Committee or reach out at any time to me. Thank you for your support!

James Robilotta: James is an author, professional speaker, personal coach, and trained improv comedian. After nearly 15 years of building, training, supervising, and evaluating teams, James followed an entrepreneurial dream and built two successful businesses. One is an organization that incorporates freestyle rapping into improv comedy (a story for another day). The other is his speaking and coaching business (a story for today).

With years of research (and a few too many real-life case studies within his work), James learned everything he could about authenticity in the workplace and uses this insight to host conversations about communication, rapport building, engagement, feedback, retention, promoting memorability, life balance, increased productivity, and more.

James has been speaking professionally to willing and unwilling audiences for years and has found that quality humor is the secret to hosting powerful conversations that make a genuine impact. His attendees leave feeling re-charged, introspective, and ready to get out of their own way.
